

WINE & FOOD 2011 Villa Terlina Barbera d'Asti DOCG Monsicuro & Thomahawksteak + Hokaidokurbis Spalten

Dear wine lovers,

today I would like to present you the 2011 Villa Terlina Barbera d'Asti DOCG Monsicuro.

Technical data:

☞ 14,5 % vol.

☞ 6,3 g/l acidity

☞ 1,0 g/l sugar

Grape variety: Barbera

Production per year: approx. 2,500 bottles

Soil: marl-limestone with gypsum rock (selenite rock)

Biodynamic: since 2006

Due to the high planting density and the slope of the terrain, all work is done manually. In 2006 the first biodynamic viticulture started. Experiments begun before the methods are practised throughout the estate.

Villa Terlina is a small family-owned winery whose goal is to produce terroir wines under strict adherence to organic farming. Each wine has its own personality, respecting the main characteristic of the year of production. Villa Terlina does not produce standard wines and uses only grapes grown in its own vineyards.

The wine is very well balanced

Wood, tobacco, chocolate, cherry I sensed in the taste.

The wine is powerful, muscular.

The ripe tannins allow the taste of the wine to remain a long time in the mouth, with a long reverberation.

The wine can be enjoyed for a long time.

The wine is to be enjoyed alongside meat. A steak, ox cheeks or tail, game, lamb shanks, but also a braised beef goes perfectly with this wine.

Today we have the 2011 Villa Terlina Barbera Asti DOCG Monsicuro matured by Dr. Alliaata with Thomahawk steak + Hokaidokurbis columns.

We are happy to have the wine in our assortment.

Recipes are for advanced tasters. Only special preparation steps are mentioned. Quantities are not given.

The components of the dish are:

Thomahawk steak of beef- short bone, matured for 5 weeks, thyme, rosemary +.

Hokaidokurbis splits in oven

Serving on he Top: roasted pumpkin seeds, Acetico Balsamico Kurbiskernöl, salt, pepper.

Enjoy!

Stay healthy and happy
